Premier of Ontario – Première ministre de l'Ontario

December 2017

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM THE PREMIER

From Thunder Bay to Ottawa to Windsor, Ontario150 has been a fantastic celebration of the 150th anniversary of our province's place within Canada, and the diversity that defines us.

In partnership with the federal government, municipalities, community organizations, and not-for-profit groups, Ontario150 created opportunities for communities to explore their heritage and tell their unique stories.

Inspiring festivals brought people together in every corner of this province to celebrate this historic year in a way that was meaningful for them. Rural, urban and northern communities showcased their contributions to Canadian culture, sport and innovation.

This milestone anniversary also provided a strong economic, social and cultural legacy for Ontarians. Through Ontario150, hundreds of community-based initiatives are receiving funding that will build pride in our province. These are investments in people and infrastructure that include renovating, repairing and retrofitting existing community and cultural infrastructure, as well as increasing accessibility, improving safety and maximizing community use.

Ontario150 has been an opportunity to celebrate our past and our present while building a strong and secure foundation for the future. It has been a time to celebrate our shared values, and support initiatives and projects that recognize the people, places and events that make Ontario a global leader in diversity, creativity, innovation, accessibility and inclusion.

Kathleen Wynne
Premier

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM THE MINISTER OF TOURISM, CULTURE AND SPORT

The celebration of Ontario's 150th anniversary in 2017 marked a crossroads in our history.

Here was a moment to look back at how far we had come and to celebrate our progress, evaluate our successes as a society and discuss our aspirations for a brighter future. This vision was the starting point for Ontario150 – the Ontario government's ambitious plan for commemorating this milestone year. Through Ontario150 people across our province came together to tell their stories in their own voices and celebrate the qualities and values that define us.

Overall, more than 2,000 events and initiatives excited, engaged, and involved people in Ontario, and supported communities in laying the groundwork for strong economic, social and cultural legacies across the province.

Thank you to the many organizations who partnered with us to deliver 28 Signature Initiatives – spectacular productions, ground-breaking programs and year-long events that enthralled visitors to our province and motivated people of all ages to participate in their communities.

Thank you to Ontario's tourism and culture agencies and attractions, our hubs for Ontario150 celebrations, for offering such a wide range of new and enhanced programming, events and exhibitions. To our partner ministries for creating impactful Ontario150 programs that supported government priorities for this landmark year – engaging youth, building stronger communities and advancing reconciliation.

To the hundreds of Ontario150 grant recipients who delivered exceptional sesquicentennial programming through the Community Celebration, Community Capital and the Partnership programs, your dedication and enthusiasm to make a positive impact in your communities was extraordinary. We're thrilled to make key investments to our cultural gems across the province so that they can better serve as pillars to the communities around them.

Thank you to the many people who helped us take another step towards reconciliation through more than 100 events and initiatives that were Indigenous led or focused, and celebrated Indigenous culture, traditions and teachings.

To the thousands of volunteers and the Ontarians who stepped forward to take part with passion and pride and made this a special year for a special place – thank you.

Thank you all for an extraordinary sesquicentennial year!

Eleanor McMahon
Ontario Minister of Tourism, Culture and Sport

2017 – An extraordinary year!

2017 marked the 150th anniversary of Canada and the Province of Ontario. In both the 2015 and 2016 Ontario Budgets, the Ontario government made a commitment to observe this historic milestone with a year-long commemoration that would honour the past and help chart a course for the future.

The multi-pillar, cross-government Ontario150 program to celebrate and commemorate the sesquicentennial was launched in September 2016, with three overarching themes:

Celebrate! Innovate! Participate!

The Ontario150 program encompassed three application-based funding programs to help communities mark the 150th.

Funding supported celebratory events, infrastructure revitalization and youth-focused projects aimed at engaging Ontarians and encouraging everyone to celebrate!

From a free concert tour to cultural villages at the North American Indigenous Games, from the single biggest same-day film festival in history to heartwarming citizenship ceremonies, the Ontario150 program surpassed expectations.

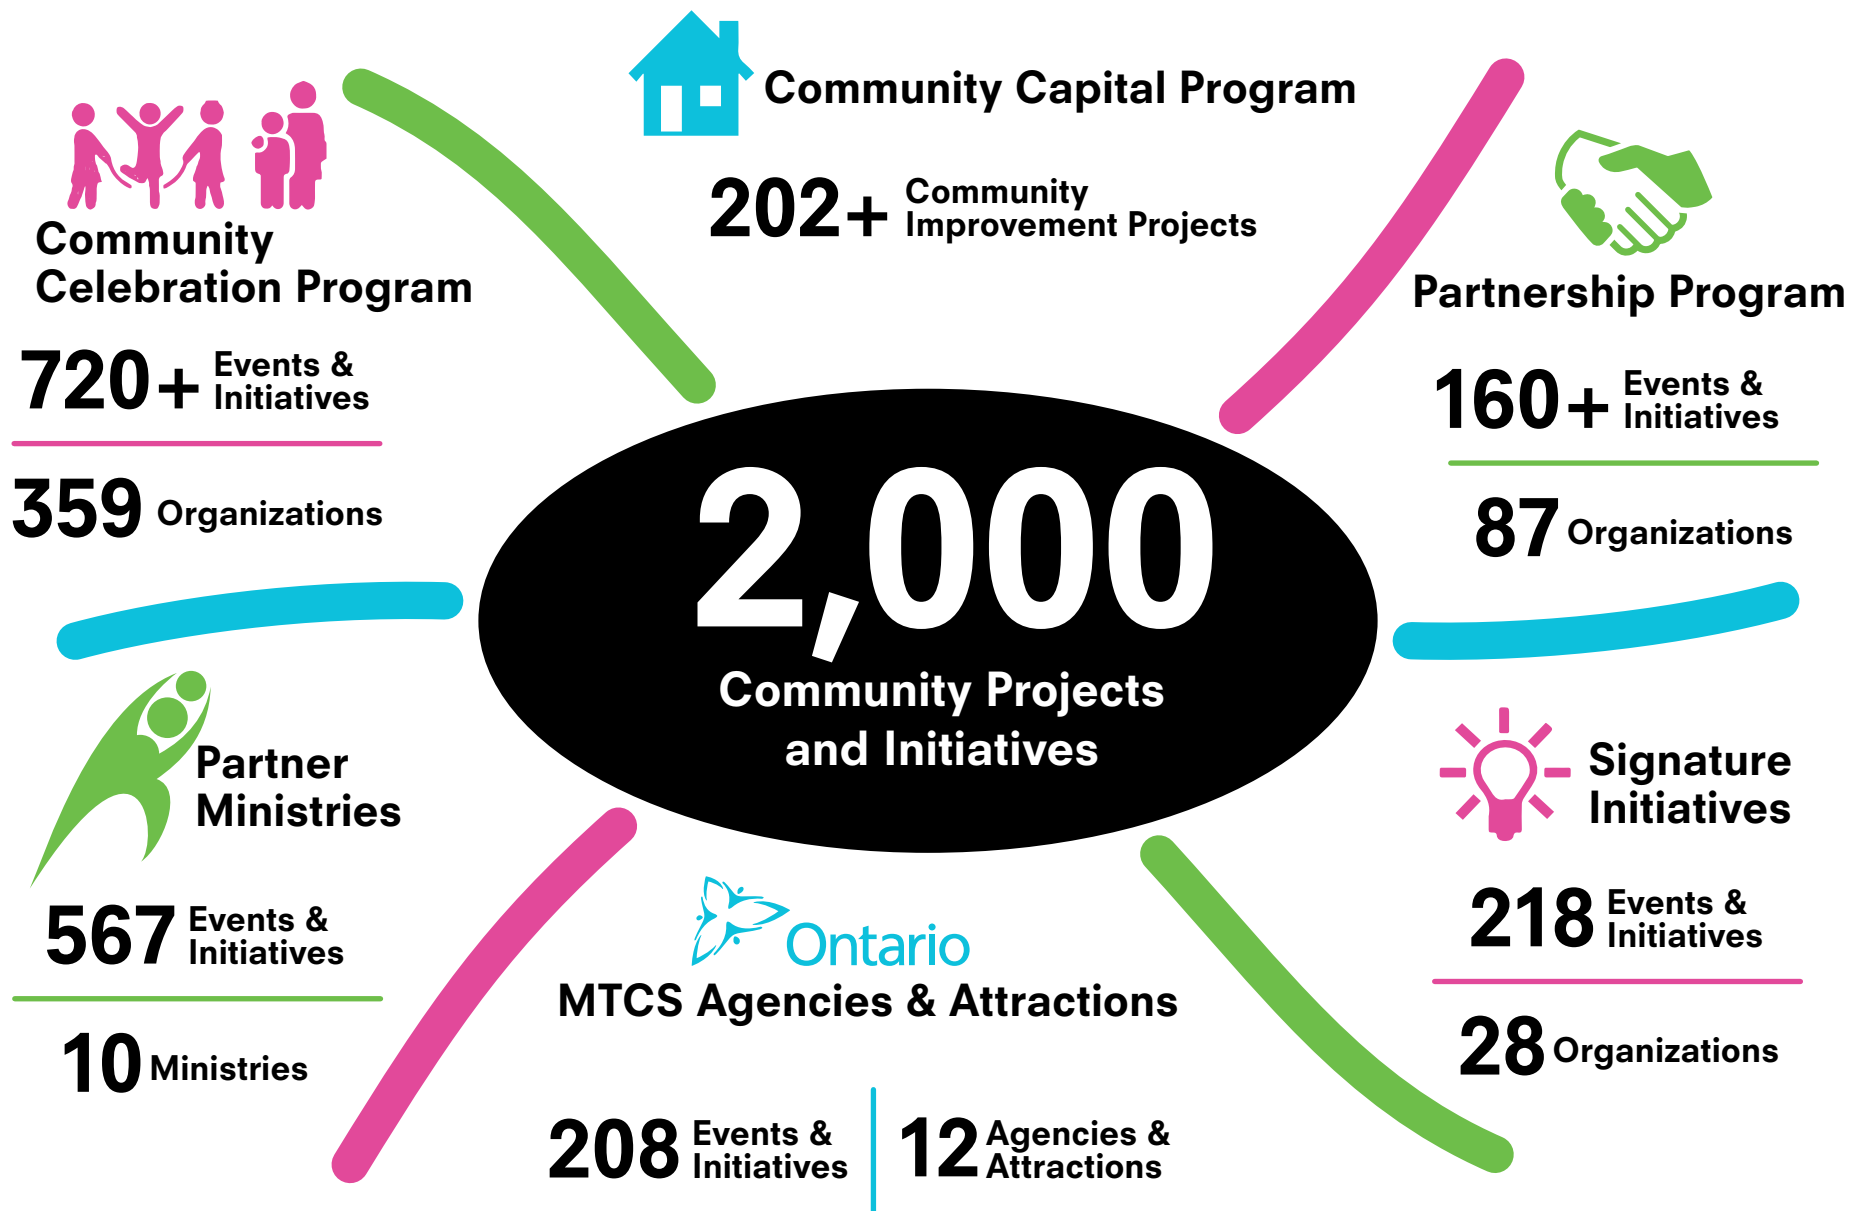

While community-building was at the heart of the program, the province's investment in Ontario150 events and initiatives supported economic growth by stimulating tourism, promoting business development and encouraging our youth.

Overall, Ontario150 supported more than 2,000 events and initiatives that built pride in our province, engaged young people and celebrated the inclusivity, diversity, and innovation that make Ontario such a great place to live.

“...as Canada celebrates 150 years, our province will host events in recognition of our proud heritage and roots. We will celebrate local talent and explore our history. People will experience the diversity of our Indigenous and Francophone communities and our many, many cultural communities that make Ontario great.”

ONtour – the Soundtrack of 2017

Music is a powerful expression of our identity, with the power to bring people together. And what’s a great celebration without music?

ONtour brought some of the best and brightest Ontario-based musical acts to fans in 24 communities – large and small – across the province this summer, including urban centres with diverse populations, rural communities, two First Nations, several Francophone communities and a town serving military families.

The artist roster was multi-genre and reflective of Ontario’s cultural and geographic diversity. It featured both emerging and established artists including Our Lady Peace, Kardinal Offishall, Amanda Marshall, July Talk, Serena Rider and Stef Paquette, as well as Coleman Hell, Iskwé, Scot Helman, River Town Saints and Francesco Yates.

ONtour brought a professional, high-quality concert experience to more than 112,000 people, offering family-friendly entertainment that had cross-generational appeal. It fostered community pride, while building Ontario’s reputation as a global live-music destination.

Application-Based Programs

Ontario150 Community Celebration Program

The Ontario150 Community Celebration Program supported communities across the province in commemorating and celebrating Ontario's 150th anniversary through multicultural festivals, art installations, cross-cultural exchanges and sport and recreation experiences.

Eligible applicants included not-for-profit organizations, municipalities and Indigenous communities and organizations.

Program Highlights

Barton Village Festival

This free family festival in Hamilton's Barton Village was started three years ago by a local resident frustrated by negative press about his community. This year's event, featuring local entertainment, children's activities, food and vendors was a huge success, attracting more than 20,000 people.

Not Just Numbers

The Toronto Ward Museum created an interactive game that invited the public to discover life stories of historic Canadians based on mystery census entries. After standing-room-only success in Toronto, they took the game on the road, partnering with libraries, museums and other groups in Kingston, Halifax and Ottawa.

Aboriginality: A Celebration of Canadian Aboriginal Music

This year's Northern Lights Festival Boréal in Sudbury facilitated cross-cultural learning with a focus on the rich and eclectic musical styles of Indigenous music, featuring such exciting artists as A Tribe Called Red, Buffy Sainte-Marie and 2017 Juno Award winners Quantum Tangle.

 SOURCE: DAREARTS INDEGINOUS PROGRAM

The Ontario150 Community

Partnership Program encouraged new partnerships – within and across sectors – to engage and empower youth in key areas such as: supporting young artists, promoting diversity and inclusion, environmental stewardship, youth entrepreneurship, promoting active and healthy living and youth engagement.

Eligible applicants included not-for-profit organizations, municipalities and Indigenous communities and organizations, businesses and business associations (for projects of a non-commercial nature).

Program Highlights

Spirit Bear (DAREarts Foundation Inc.)
 Indigenous youth in four remote First Nations communities participated in week-long workshops, along with elders and professionals, to create their own multi-arts retelling of local traditional stories, inspired by the Stratford Festival’s production of The Breathing Hole. Their work was showcased in the community and at the Stratford Festival, and made available online.

ArtWorks Social Enterprise Program (United World Voices)
 Two hundred at-risk and homeless youth aged 16-24 in downtown Ottawa learned how to generate income by repurposing discarded materials into clothing accessories and household items. With the support of business mentors, volunteers and staff, a self-sustaining social enterprise was created by youth and for youth.

Métis Voyageur Canoe Expedition
 (Métis Nation of Ontario)
 Twelve Métis youth embarked on an epic 2,200 km, 86-day canoe expedition from Mattawa to Kenora, retracing the traditional waterways of their ancestor voyageurs and learning about Métis culture, traditions and role in Canadian history.

Ontario150 Community Capital Program

J.H. BURTON MEMORIAL ARENA, CENTRAL MANITOULIN
SOURCE: MUNICIPALITY OF CENTRAL MANITOULIN

The Ontario150 Community Capital Program strengthened communities by supporting the repair, renovation or retrofit of existing infrastructure including multicultural centres, theatres, playgrounds, heritage sites and sports facilities.

Eligible applicants included registered charities and not-for-profit organizations; municipalities; cultural and recreation agencies; Local Service Boards operating community facilities; and First Nations, Indigenous communities, including Métis and Inuit, and organizations serving urban Indigenous people.

The Ontario150 Community Capital Program was administered for the province through the Ontario Trillium Foundation (OTF).

Program Highlights

City of Brockville

Canada's first railway tunnel and adjacent property has been repurposed as a central hub for the city's recreational pathway, with a new paved concrete floor and energy-efficient lighting to highlight the tunnel's architecture and geology.

Township of Bonnechere Valley

The ice surface pad at the 50-year-old Eganville Community Arena was badly cracked and the circulation system used for freezing was leaking and corroded. Ontario150 funding helped replace the brine system, ice pad and dehumidifiers.

Variety Village

One of 61 community facilities across the province making accessibility improvements. Four washrooms and two change rooms at Toronto's Variety Village will be fully renovated, with updated fixtures, lockers and showers. This work will help meet the growing demands for service at one of Ontario's leading centres for inclusive sport development, impacting 30,000 children and adults who use the facility annually.

Ontario’s tourism and culture agencies and attractions thrilled visitors with new and augmented programming, events and exhibitions. With facilities across Ontario, these organizations were uniquely suited to serve as hubs for Ontario150 celebrations.

Programming highlights included:

Art Gallery of Ontario – The Every.Now.Then exhibition explored Canada as a dynamic work in progress anchored by strong Indigenous voices and a complexity of cultures.

Fort William Historical Park – The first ever Karnival on the Kam drew thousands of visitors with watersport stunt shows, a big top circus and Canada’s largest-ever fireworks show.

Huronia Historical Parks – The new Discovery Harbour Skate Trail featured historical interpretation, ice sculptures and live entertainment.

McMichael Canadian Art Collection – The Passion Over Reason: Tom Thomson & Joyce Weiland exhibition took a critical approach to our fascination with Canada’s most iconic artist.

Niagara Parks Commission – New interactive exhibits, pollinator gardens and other environmental programming educated visitors about the region’s rich environmental features.

Ontario Heritage Trust – The MyOntario initiative started a conversation with Ontarians about our experiences, identities, values and aspirations, creating a lasting record for the future.

Ontario Place – Ontario150 themed festivals on the four summer long weekends helped reintroduce Ontarians to this iconic destination.

Ontario Science Centre – Inventorium transformed the Ontario Science Centre Great Hall into a hands-on discovery and exploration zone.

Royal Botanical Gardens – Nature Connects put the beauty of the natural world on display using the world’s most popular building blocks – LEGO!

Royal Ontario Museum – The must-see Blue Whale exhibit, Out of the Depths, told the story of one of the natural world’s most majestic creatures, while Anishinaabeg: Art & Power showcased a grassroots Indigenous art movement.

Science North – A new touring planetarium show, Under the Same Stars: Minwaadizin, explored the common constellations through traditional Anishinaabe stories.

St. Lawrence Parks Commission – The Eve of Confederation immersive theatre experience at Upper Canada Village invited audiences to experience love, life and politics in the 1860s.

Partner Ministries

The Ontario150 program was a cross-government endeavour, with many ministries taking the opportunity to align activities with the Ontario150 themes, incorporate the Ontario150 brand into their products or participate in Ontario150 events.

Ten ministries specifically used this pivotal point in our history to expand or augment their programming. With support from the Ontario150 program, they used their unique expertise and relationships to help advance a range of provincial priorities highlighted below:

Participating Ministries included:

Accessibility Directorate of Ontario – Produced a new EnAbling Change children’s book series to help kids develop positive attitudes towards accessibility and inclusion, distributed to Ontario schools and libraries.

Children and Youth Services – Hosted a Youth Impact Summit on the future of youth civic engagement with 1,000 youth and youth organizations, and funded four grassroots youth initiatives.

Citizenship and Immigration – Enhanced the 30th Order of Ontario Investiture Ceremony to honour all past and present recipients and Canada Day Celebrations at Queen’s Park for over 50,000 people.

Education – Improved playgrounds and/or community spaces at almost 360 elementary schools, and supported over 80 secondary schools in creating their own 150-themed celebrations.

Francophone Affairs – Presented a cultural showcase in Ottawa on Franco-Ontarian Day, and worked with TFO to deliver an interactive program for French-language middle schools.

Indigenous Relations and Reconciliation – Supported the Métis Nation of Ontario’s Métis Voyageur Canoe Expedition, the 2017 Inspire Awards and Soaring Conference for Indigenous youth, and 27 community projects.

International Trade – Worked with the Toronto Global Forum to host an innovative program for ex-pat business leaders who mentored over 350 young entrepreneurs and SMEs.

Northern Development and Mines – Distributed 16,000 Ontario150-branded white pine seed kits to encourage kids and families across the province to take action on climate change by Re-greening Ontario.

Seniors’ Affairs – Age Friendly Ontario supported 33 community-based projects to engage seniors, new community resources and a conference for Franco-Ontarian seniors.

Status of Women – Delivering a one-day symposium in early 2018 to celebrate 150 years of women’s achievements and the future of women’s and girls’ empowerment in Ontario.

Public Engagement

The Ontario150 Brand

The Ontario150 program included a marketing campaign to increase the excitement and awareness of Ontario150 and provide Ontarians across the province with opportunities for public engagement. The Ontario150 program had an impressive reach:

Over 2 billion impressions and counting!

Logo

A distinct Ontario150 logo was developed to create brand awareness and distinguish Ontario150 from other sesquicentennial programs. The brightly coloured logo captured the energy and vibrancy of Ontario as a centre of culture, creativity and innovation.

From a sea of Ontario150-branded flags at community events to field of play presence at the Invictus Games and World Junior Hockey Championships, and from a GO Train wrap to movie cinema ad campaigns, the Ontario150 logo was seen everywhere.

Nearly 700 funded partners and stakeholders, as well as hundreds of other businesses and organizations, used the logo to co-brand their initiatives and demonstrate their enthusiasm for Ontario150.

Song

Marking the sesquicentennial provided a unique opportunity to re-imagine A Place to Stand, Ontario's unofficial anthem. The upbeat new version, recorded by a local Toronto band, The Monowhales, became the soundtrack for Ontario150 and the ad campaign. Sheet music, chorale arrangements and lyrics were made available on the Ontario.ca/150 website and used by Ontarians, school bands and choirs across the province. The anthem played at ONtour concerts, Canada Day celebrations, the 105th Grey Cup Festival, and at multiple stakeholder events throughout the year. It also received over 70,000 views on the province's YouTube channel, and thousands of downloads on Spotify and SoundCloud.

Ad

The ad campaign focused on Ontario150 and included themes of diversity, inclusion, hope and opportunity, and was seen on television, in cinemas, online and through social media. It celebrated the values that define Ontario, and reminded everyone why Ontario is a great place to live.

What People Are Saying

“[ONtour] was first rate all the way, thanks for coming to such a small town, by far the smallest on your tour, it was highly appreciated.”

– (Blind River)

“It was amazing to see our Canadian singers. Loved it.”

– (Blind River)

“Great, great show, thank you to all the bands, organizers, etc. Can’t wait for next year.”

– (Barrie)

– ONtour music fans (Facebook ONtour event pages)

“Amongst the marquee events taking place in Ottawa this year were Red Bull Crashed Ice, Kontinuum, La Machine, the historic Interprovincial Picnic on Alexandra Bridge, and dozens of original culinary events. These new events are adding vibrancy to our capital city. They are changing the way Canadians think of Ottawa and are creating unforgettable memories for millions of visitors and residents.”

– Guy Laflamme, Executive Director and Producer, Ottawa 2017 (Ottawa)

“It is no longer an option to ignore or claim ignorance to the realities that Indigenous people in Canada live with every day. All of us have to do better... I am proud of the work that the DAREarts team accomplished up north and am honoured to have been a part of it.”

– Michelle Jamieson, Set Designer, Stratford Festival (DAREarts Foundation Project Delivery Partner)

“They came in here, a group of 200-plus kids, not sure of what they were going to face, and they left confident, empowered, inspired...”

– Tessa Bonhomme, Olympian, Jumpstart Athlete Ambassador (Sudbury Jumpstart Games)

“EDIT wouldn’t have been possible without the Ontario150 Program. Over 10 days, we had 35,000 visitors and had over 400 million worldwide media impressions. Just as important, EDIT allowed Design Exchange to reposition and create relevance on an unprecedented level. It has put us on a whole new path, poised for future success.”

– Shauna Levy, President and CEO, Design Exchange (Toronto)

“As SESQUI was a national project... our success depended to a large extent on local engagement to create meaningful impact. From our perspective, no other province created as cohesive a message and curated events as well as Ontario150. This commitment to quality delivery led to real engagement and excitement community to community. It was an energy that could be felt in the air.”

– Andrea Stewart, Executive Producer, SESQUI (Events in Toronto, London, Windsor, Sault Ste. Marie, Thunder Bay, Richmond Hill and Kingston)
